Tribe Shares Nez Perce Culture and Hospitality With McCall Community

McCall, Idaho is an area known for its beauty and year-round recreation. This is a destination for many folks who enjoy the outdoors. The Nez Perce Tribe (Tribe) is no exception, and has continued to come to this area since time immemorial. On May 21st, 2019 the Tribe hosted their first annual event in an effort to reintegrate the Nez Perce culture and hospitality back into the area. Capáaypa Qéelewit, meaning soon reunion or a coming together, provided dancing, singing, speaking, and a feast for local residents, tourists, and tribal members to share. Legacy and Depot Park catered to a beautiful and spacious venue for all. Throughout the afternoon attendees mingled, laughed, and shared stories; spreading warm friendly vibes amid the chilly and windy weather. The Tribe was able to share some of the traditional dances, seen at many pow wows. Demonstrated were Women's Traditional, Jingle, Men's Traditional, and Tiny Tots. From there, the event moved into some social dances. All attendees were invited to participate and learn about an intertribal, owl dance, and circle dance. There was no hesitation, as the floor was filled with dancers; tribal and non-tribal alike. Each partici-

Nimiipuu Health Now Has Three New Community Health Workers

As Nimiipuu Health continues to make changes and enhancements to the clinic, staff are also taking an active role. Three employees from the Community Health Department participated in the 16-week Community Health Workers (CHW) program. They recently received their certifications and will be putting their learned skills to practice.

Three Nez Perce Tribal members Carmen Payne, Larry Greene, and Cyra Cunningham each completed the CHW program through Idaho State University. This program was developed for front line public health workers, who have a close understanding or shared life experience with the communities they serve. These staff will now have a better knowledge to help ensure locals receive valuable information, resources, and health care services.

The program was provided through online courses primarily, but also included three, two-hour tele-conference sessions. The three employees worked diligently to complete assignments, attend all sessions, and pass their exam. "This is a big accomplishment and I am proud of these three for taking the initiative to complete this difficult program," stated Leslie Smith, Community Health Department Manager.

16th Annual Environmental Education & Cultural Knowledge Day

The Nez Perce Tribe's 16th Annual Environmental Education & Cultural Knowledge Day is coordinated and hosted by the Nez Perce Tribe's Environmental Restoration & Waste Management (ERWM) Program. The event was a huge success and was held on Thursday, May 30, 2019, at the Old BIA Grounds Loop in Lapwai, Idaho.

"This program is only successful because we have a school who is willing to participate and support the event, and we have presenters willing to take the time to share their knowledge and wisdom with these students and staff," said Solo Greene, ERWM Program Education Specialist and Coordinator of the event.

The ERWM program is geared toward the younger students, and the purpose of the program is to introduce students to a variety of environmental and cultural programs to make them aware of the different programs that are available for what they are doing and why they do what they do.

This year, there were 17 presenters representing eight different programs or institutions, including the Nez Perce Tribe's Cultural Resources Program (Nakia Williamson, Marquel Greene, Jarvis Wea-skus and Jenifer Chadez), Nez Perce Tribe's Nez Perce Language Program (Gary Greene, Andrea Sonneck, Erin Ramsey and Trina Webb), Nez Perce Tribe's Bio-Control (Mary Lawrence and Chris Webb), Nez Perce Tribe's Students for Success (Leslie Randall and Liam Randall), LC Valley Beekeepers Association (Lee Gibbs), Nez Perce National Historical Park (Emily Devereaux and Jennifer Kolm), Northwest Indian College (Raneisha Eravia) and Eastern Washington University (Kolton Anderson).

In attendance, ERWM had 214 students and 26 teachers and staff that came through from the Lapwai Elementary, there were also three younger students from the community who were brought in by their mother who participated and made their rounds.

Greene also said that it was nice to have a regular flow of students circulating through the stations, and when you have language, culture and tradition to compliment other programs, institutions and agencies, you know you have a good mix.

Greene would like to thank the Lapwai Elementary, all the presenters, all the volunteers and all those that help to make this event possible.

This represents the Nez Perce people, after being forced to leave the Wallawas, that stayed or returned to the area.

On Saturday, June 22nd, 2019 the Center hosted an event inviting the public to view the recently installed art piece and share in a meal. Two drums were present and speakers shared in the celebration. Kevin Peters, Nez Perce Tribal member, told a few stories he had of Hyde and introduced him to the stage. Hyde’s speech was short and to the point, thanking everyone for attending.

Hyde was selected as the sculptor after the Center put out the word that they were seeking an artist from a Plateau tribe. It came down to two individuals, and Hyde’s concept was chosen. He spent the last year designing and creating his vision. The project was funded through a grant provided by the Oregon Community Foundation.

First Responder's Ball- A Night to Remember

Planning for the First Responder's Ball began just shortly after Officer Josh Rigney was shot on April 17th. The benefit fundraiser became a reality on Friday, June 21st as folks strolled into the event center at the Clearwater River Casino, dressed to the nines in their formal attire. Everyone who contributed and attended came for one major reason; to support Officer Rigney.

All proceeds from the benefit fundraiser would be given to Officer Rigney, father of three, and his family. The event provided a number of fundraising activities such as a silent auction, heads or tails, a raffle, booze board, and the big finale of a live auction. There were also a few donated surprises for Officer Rigney.

The Nez Perce Tribe Police Department honored Officer Rigney that evening, with Tribal Veteran Steve Reuben, presenting him with the Red Eagle Feather. Follett's Mountain Sports presented a mountain bike to assist with Officer Rigney's recovery. Inland Cellular announced that they would be installing a surveillance system in Officer Rigney's new home, and would also be working to provide this for all Tribal Law Enforcement. The Tribe presented Officer Rigney, two officers and the paramedic that assisted him, each with Pendleton blankets.

As the night moved forward folks shared a delicious meal and drinks while listening to the music of local musician, Aaron Cerutti. All auction items were sold; many for more than the retail price. Winners of the heads or tails game and the raffle, donated their winnings back to Officer Rigney. The evening wrapped up with emcee and auctioneer, Keith Havens, putting on his DJ hat and filling the floor as everyone danced the night away, celebrating life.

Qe'ciyéw'yew for all that donated items, services, time, and money; sponsors; the planning committee; and attendees. Himéeq'is qe'ciyéw'yew to all the first responders; we know the risks you take 24-7 providing for our safety and wellbeing, you are true heroes.

Janice Merlene Heimgartner Groseclose, 76, Juliaetta, ID

Janice Merlene Heimgartner Groseclose, lifelong Juliaetta area resident, passed away Saturday, June 22, 2019, after a courageous six-year battle with ovarian cancer.

Janice was born Oct. 2, 1942, to Lawrence and Nellie Marie Fey Heimgartner at Swingle's Nursing Home in Clarkston. She was the eldest of three siblings. Janice grew up on the family farm on American Ridge, located between Kendrick and Juliaetta. She was enrolled in Juliaetta Elementary School, where she skipped the second grade, making her the youngest student in her class. At Kendrick High School, Janice was a majorette, played the piano both in solo competitions and as the accompanist for the high school chorus and graduated as salutatorian of her high school class of 1960.

She then enrolled in Lewis-Clark Normal School in the teacher education program, obtaining an associate degree in elementary education in 1962, where she received the Gertrude Mellon Dick Award for the highest scholastic achievement in her class. Janice subsequently graduated from Lewis-Clark State College with a Bachelor of Science degree in elementary education, again earning the Gertrude Mellon Dick Award. In 1978, Janice earned her Masters of Education at the University of Idaho.

Janice spent 42 years teaching first grade in Lapwai School District in Lapwai, including a stint as principal of Lapwai Middle School. Mrs. Groseclose was a phenomenal teacher who poured her love into each and every student. She dedicated her life and used her creative ingenuity to teach hundreds of children. Janice was active in the Lapwai Education Association, serving as both the president and the secretary of the LEA, and was a diligent worker on the negotiating team. Janice was named Lapwai School District Teacher of the Year in 1987.

Janice served for many years as board member, secretary-treasurer, Sunday school teacher, pianist and organist for the Juliaetta Community Church. Janice was an accomplished pianist. She taught piano lessons and played for many weddings, funerals and other community functions. Janice was the secretary-treasurer for the Juliaetta Television Association, which provides free television reception to the town of Juliaetta. In 1977, Janice led a successful, hard-fought campaign to bring about the underground sewer pipe system and sewage treatment facility in Juliaetta.

Janice married Richard Groseclose on Nov. 23, 1962, at Kendrick Methodist Church in Kendrick. Janice and Richard lived all their married life in Juliaetta, where they built their own home, raised a large garden, grew fruit trees and enjoyed setting up Christmas light displays. Janice especially enjoyed planting and caring for her large flower gardens. Over the years, Janice and Richard acquired numerous rental housing units and dedicated a great deal of time to maintaining and caring for their properties and successfully managing their business.

Janice and Richard were selected Citizens of the Year in 1988 by the Kendrick Grange. They were the Honored Citizens for the Juliaetta Blackberry Festival in 2010, and the Grand Marshalls of the Kendrick Locust Blossom Festival in 2013.

Janice is survived by her husband, Richard Groseclose; daughter and son-in-law Marilou and Rick Markley; sister and brother-in-law Joanne and David Johnson; and brother and sister-in-law Ray and Dede Heimgartner.
