Nez Perce Renaming Celebration: Commemorating the 25th Anniversary of the Return of the Spalding-Allen Collection

Nez Perce tribe secures earliest and largest documented collection of material culture with an anticipated renaming celebration June 26, 2021

Lapwai, Idaho—The Nez Perce Tribe (Tribe) is preparing to commemorate the 25th anniversary of the return of the Spalding-Allen Collection (Collection) with a renaming celebration. The event is scheduled to take place on Saturday, June 26th, 2021 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The Tribe and Nez Perce National Historical Park (Park) will host the renaming celebration at Spalding, ID, the original place of acquisition by Reverend Henry H. Spalding from individual Nez Perce tribal members.

Nakia Cloud-Williamson, Nez Perce Tribal member and Director of the Nez Perce Tribe Cultural Resource Program explains, “The renaming of this collection is a significant step to reclaiming ownership of one of the most significant ethnographic collections in existence. More importantly, renaming helps us in rejecting colonialism and its impacts on our ‘way of life.’”

The Nez Perce will always be a people deeply rooted to the land from which they come. The Spalding-Allen Collection demonstrates how embedded even the material items of the Nez Perce, those that traveled the longest of colonial journeys, will eventually find their way home.

From 1836-1846 Spalding acquired 21 Nez Perce artifacts traditionally worn, or used by, men, women, children, and horses, which were later sent to Spalding’s benefactor Dr. Dudley Allen. In 1893, after Dr. Allen’s death, his son donated the Collection to Oberlin College, who later loaned most of the collection to the Ohio Historical Society, now known as the Ohio History Connection (OHC). In 1976, Bill Holm, Curator of the Burke Museum at the University of Washington informed the curator at the Park about the Spalding-Allen artifacts at the OHC. The Park reached out to the museum and after some negotiations, OHC agreed to loan the collection to the Park with an annual loan renewal agreement starting in 1980.

In 1993, OHC demanded the return of the collection. Rather than donating the items to the Tribe, OHC eventually agreed to sell the collection at its full appraised value of $608,100. The Tribe was given a six-month deadline to provide the money. With the help of thousands of donors, the Tribe was successful in raising the full amount, and on June 26, 1996 the Tribe brought home the oldest, largest, and most well preserved artifact collection of the Plateau people. “These items traveled extensively before finally returning home 25 years ago. We want to honor that journey and recognize the tremendous amount of effort that was required to make it happen. Without the help of thousands of people, the reacquisition would not have happened. We look forward to presenting this collection with a name that is representative of our culture and way of life,” stated Nez Perce Tribal Executive Committee Chairman, Shannon Wheeler. “We know there are other lost artifacts out there; hopefully they can return home someday as well.”

The collection, owned by the Tribe, is physically stored by the Park in a dedicated space designed to meet museum standards and requirements for the best preservation, protection, and accessibility of the collection. The majority of the collection will be on display at the Park’s Visitor Center from June 19, 2021 to September 19, 2021.

Created by the hands of our Nimiipuu ancestors. Collected and sold by a missionary. Moved across the country and passed from father to son then to college and museum. Rediscovered decades later, the fight began to reclaim these treasured items back into the hands of the people who created them.

1. NEPE 8758
   - cáwtiwaan' wispóolsam'x
   - Woman's dress made of two deer skins and decorated with glass beads, dentalium, thimbles, elk teeth, and fringe. The style of beadwork and design is similar to the cradleboard from this collection. See NEPE 33887.

2. NEPE 33887
   - tiké's
   - Teardrop shaped child's cradleboard made from a wooden board and covered with brain tanned deerskin. Decorated with glass beads, dentalium shells, and elk teeth. The style of beadwork and design is similar to the beaded buckskin dresses from this collection. See NEPE 8758.

3. NEPE 8746
   - lìickaw’
   - Subconical shaped basket hat made from hemp and beargrass. Designs on the outside of hat feature a three part division of separated dovetail and step patterns on a basal line of colors of orange and medium dark brown.

4. NEPE 8754
   - ‘ìméesnîm ‘itêp’e’s
   - Decorated deer-shaped bag made featuring beadwork and made from two separate pieces of hide. The upper section of the bag (neck area) is smoked bison hide and the front section of the bag is deer hide. The bag shows some evidence of hair indicating that it originally had been left on when the bag was made. Severe water and insect damage and clippage of the hair over the years has left this bag in poor condition.
5. NEPE 8760
sac’ásnin sám’x
Man’s cured hide shirt decorated with quill work and black and white Venetian glass beads. Body of the shirt is of the two-skin style with hair side outward and head section at top. Quill work on fringe of neck flaps in yellow and brown, yellow on sleeve and shoulder fringe.

6. NEPE 8755
k’üsey’ne sapo’saapó’s
A woman’s saddle made from a cottonwood frame with a rawhide covering. The rawhide saddle fenders feature geometric designs of green, yellow, and red. Bison hide tie laces secure rawhide inner pieces that form the pommel and cantle overhangs.

7. NEPE 8750
wahiloskó’s
Decorated elk antler horse quirt or whip. The handle is formed of a piece of rawhide thong to which a forged iron ram rod is attached at one end. The ram rod was from an 1800 era firearm. The antler quirt shows considerable wear and patina from use prior to collection date indicating that it was made prior to 1845. The decorations include six circular incisions over which seven brass rings are placed near the tip.

8. NEPE 8738-9
walim’lapqat
Pair of beaded moccasins made from three separate pieces of hide. One piece of cured bison hide for the upper portion, one piece of cured bison hide for the tongue, and one piece of recycled rawhide for the sole. The recycled rawhide features geometric painted designs of green, yellow, and red. The pieces of hide are sewn together with sinew, using the whip-stitch method. Beadwork design is curvilinear and floral using red and blue seed beads.
